LETTER FROM COMPTON.

Local Option—A Temperance Community—Equalization of Taxes—A Better Time Coming.

EDITOR HERALD:—Since my last everything has been unusually quiet in our little village. Farmers are all busy at work on their farms of week days and all go to church on Sunday and listen to a "quiet little sermon," and then return home to "doze" away the afternoon, so you see we feel joyful. Yours, truly and sincerely, J. H. COFFER.

Walla Walla District.

Mr. T. J. Bedford kindly furnishes us the following interesting points, taken from a private letter dated Cerbat, Walla Walla District, A. T., July 20th:

" * * * This new town is just below the gorge of the cañon, is perfectly flat, an abundance of water is obtained by sinking for it, and in fact it is the only natural town site in the vicinity of our rich and valuable mines. Col. David Buell will soon have his furnace running. His men are kept working every day in the week, Sundays not excepted. All our mines are encouraging and is decidedly one of the best out-looks for the speculator, business man or miner that there is on the coast. New discoveries and rich ones are being made every day. In fact, it is wonderful what the energy and perseverance of such a man as Col. Buell can stimulate all the latent forces of our hardy population to do. There are no idle men in the district; the sharp click of the drill and the boom of the blast bombs are the cheerful fore-warning of future prosperity. So mote it be."

In this district alone there are 1,100 locations, and Mr. Platz, our competent assayer, states that the average of the assays are larger than that of any other mining camp on the coast. Consequently you will see that I feel joyful. Yours, truly and sincerely, J. H. COFFER.

CITY AND COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.
WEDNESDAY.....JULY 29, 1874.

One Woman and Two Men.

HENRY WARD BEECHER is a learned man, an orator, a man of attractive presence, a magnetizer, a humanizing philosopher. Mrs. ELIZABETH R. TILTON is a woman, pretty, amiable, warm-hearted, religious by instinct, and reverential by nature. She worships God and reveres Mr. BEECHER. THEODORE TILTON has ability, is an orator of the successful lecturer class, has no religious principles that he believes himself, is a sort of social free-lance; believes in free love, and practices what he believes. These are our photographs of the three persons now attracting more attention than any other trio of American citizens. The statements of each as they follow the other in rapid succession are eagerly read by all classes of the commonwealth, and opinions as to the guilt or innocence of each are almost as varied as the readers are numerous. If we could place all the parties to the controversy on the same moral plane and judge them as we should judge three persons who sought only to establish the truth, TILTON's charges would almost assume the character of positive conviction, and people unacquainted with the accuser and the accused, until possessed of a clear analysis of the characters of all, cannot avoid a conclusion almost amounting to a verdict of guilty against Mr. BEECHER. But we cannot conduct the trial on this plan—we cannot accept the statement and leave the motion entirely unconsidered. Nor can we convince ourselves that the bare statement of one of these men is worthy of the same credence as the other. A man's unsupported statement is strong or weak according to his moral character and reputation for veracity. Unfortunately for Mr. TILTON his moral character is not, like CESAR would have his wife, above suspicion. He is the avowed convert of a social system which repudiates the marriage contract; he has offered evidence of envy of Mr. BEECHER, and his charges from beginning to end are fraught with a strong odor of jealousy. Evidently he believes all he says concerning Mr. BEECHER and Mrs. TILTON. He has himself proved false to his altar vows, and he has worked himself into a belief that his wife has also broken hers. He is crazed with envy, jealousy and a consciousness that he is worse than he alleges Mr. BEECHER to be, and that his wife can never sink below the plane on which he stands himself. Hence we said at the first signs of a fresh eruption of this scandal mountain that TILTON's word proved nothing; that he could only establish the criminality of his wife and Mr. BEECHER through written statements over their own signatures or through their own confession. Until the agitation of this TILTON matter, BEECHER has stood fair before the world. His character has never been reproached and his moral reputation has been unspotted. TILTON charges, and he denies. While it is a simple question of veracity between these two men, BEECHER is in no danger whatever of being put down. We doubt if TILTON will be able to produce positive proof of BEECHER's guilt. If he is guilty and the world comes to believe him so, the evidence must come from BEECHER himself. It may be argued that he has already admitted too much; that the acknowledgment of Mrs. TILTON's wild love for him and the admission that he accepted her blandishments; that these love passages or idol worshipings were of frequent occurrence, is in the estimation of the world nothing more or less than pleading guilty to the indictment of adultery. We have no doubt many people reach this conclusion. To the common mind, it is next to impossible not to feel a bias in that direction. Yet the absolute proof is wanting, and if we imagine it an easy thing, or even a possibility, to set a keg of powder on fire and extinguish it in time to save half the explosive material, we shall have no difficulty in persuading ourselves that Mrs. TILTON's love for her pastor was the adoration of the creature for the creator, and that the pastor's love for the parishioner was of that platonic character about which we have all read so much and experienced so little. Mr. BEECHER's published statement that Mrs. TILTON loved him—loved him tenderly and caressingly—may be construed into a disposition to sacrifice the woman in order to save himself. We think there is some mistake about this. We have a better opinion of the man. TILTON sacrificed his wife at the very outset and it is not remarkable that he should stoop to an act so unmanly and despicable. BEECHER is an honorable man and will not throw the poor woman overboard to save his own life. He has made admissions that will create a feeling against him. He did not consider this part of the case and stated what he believed must be accepted as the facts. The unprejudiced and impartial cannot but admit that TILTON is yet far short of proving a single charge made; and so long as he continues to reiterate his unproven allegations, he will not convince a single man or woman of Mr. BEECHER's guilt. Of Mrs. TILTON nothing need be said. She is a woman. Of her statements we are not opinionate. Our belief is that while it contains nothing that in the least criminally either herself or Mr. BEECHER, it would have been as bad if never been written or published. As the case now appears, Mr. BEECHER stands just where he did on the opening day: he is charged with the commission of certain disreputable acts, but the proof of his guilt is not yet forthcoming.

Another Local Industry.

We are pleased to be able to inform the readers of the HERALD that Los Angeles county will soon have a fruit-drying factory. Mr. GEORGE B. DAVIS, one of the proprietors of the Kelsay's nurseries, of Oakland, has purchased the patent of the Alden Fruit-Drying Process for this county, and will soon be in this city for the purpose of erecting the buildings and machinery requisite for commencing operations. The value of this fruit-drying establishment to this county will be very great—how great we can best explain by giving the following, from a late number of the Alta: "The value of the dried fruits imported into this country is something immense. Every week New York city alone receives $50,000 worth of prunes, including German, Hungarian, French, etc.; and frequently the imports run as high as $100,000 per week. It is safe to estimate the total annual receipts of prunes from all sources by the United States at $5,000,000. The value of the raisins received is equal to or more than this amount. Another $5,000,000 is made up by the Zante currants, figs, apricots, etc. Thus the whole dried fruit importation cannot be worth less than $15,000,000 annually. The question now arises: What are the capacities of California, to relieve the country of the necessity of foreign importations, and to build up a thriving home-industry? So far, we have not done much; but there seems in the future no definite limit to the productiveness of our soil or the extent of the market available. At present, attempts are being made on a comparatively small scale, to bring this important industry to the front, but when these are compared with the field open, they are infinitesimal. There are now fifteen Alden Evaporators working at San Lorenzo, besides three to be immediately put in operation at Sonoma and at Sacramento, San Leandro and other places. These prepare $100 worth of "Alden" fruit per day, during the season of 180 days. The San Lorenzo factory will put up $270,000 worth this year. Although this is ten times the value of any previous yearly product for the State, it is after all but a drop in the bucket. No appreciable difference is felt in fruit-growing sections; and, as usual, large quantities will be allowed to go to waste, or be sold without profit. It is not too much to predict that California is capable of supplying the United States with dried fruit, and to export largely abroad. Whether she does so, depends upon the use made of the materials, and remains to be seen.

There and Here.

Our brethren dwelling on the eastern side of the Rocky Mountains have been of late visited with numerous and terrible tornadoes. The loss of life has been considerable, and the destruction of property very great. The wind and the lightning devasted whole sections. The New York Times, of a late date, says: "If the opinion of that much respected person, the 'oldest inhabitant,' may again be relied upon for accuracy, we shall have to believe that lightning has been more destructive to life and property in the United States during twelve days of the present month than at any given time of equal length for a great many years. Of this much we are pretty certain, that if the reports from each State and Territory were to be compiled, the record of disasters would be found sufficient to fill a goodly-sized volume. Houses have been struck and demolished as rapidly as if they had been constructed of paper soaked in saltpetre or powder; giant oaks and stately elms have been split into fragments and torn from their roots like reeds; ships have been burned to the water's edge, and men, women, and children either killed outright or permanently injured." Certainly California can add nothing to swell the volume. While the East has been visited with flood, whirlwind and thunderbolt, we, of this part of the world, have not had the even tenor of our way disturbed by the visit of one of our mildest earthquakes.

WILLIAM M. STEWART of Nevada has announced his intention not to be a candidate for re-election to the United States Senate. It is a wise thought on the part of WILLIAM. A Senator who has spent six years as Senatorial pugilist for railroad corporations will hardly be re-elected by the people of Nevada while in their present temper.

WILLIAM SHARON's chance for filling the seat in the United States Senate now occupied by WILLIAM M. STEWART is considered remarkably good by those well-posted on Nevada politics. SUTRO is not regarded as in the fight, and there are no other aspirants having the slightest chance for success.

Board of Education.

JULY 27th, 1874.
The Board met at 2 o'clock p.m. Present—H. D. Barrows, President; and members Wm. Priddy, Geo. H. Smith, Dr. Widney and M. Kremer. The Board resolved that all communications to the Board of Education, by teachers, regarding their schools, shall be made to the city Superintendent.

The Board also resolved that children living outside of the city limits and coming into our schools, shall be required to pay for primary scholars, $8; for intermediate scholars, $9; and for grammar scholars, $10; for each term of five months, invariably in advance. ANOTHER TILTON CARD.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Tilton publishes a card in which he complains that the Committee of Investigation in the Beecher case show a disposition to ignore his statements. A reporter has obtained from Elizabeth Cady Stanton a statement of Tilton's made in his wife's absence, and a circular telegram with Beecher also a statement by Susan B. Anthony of a scene at Tilton's house, in which, when excited, each confessed that they had violated the marriage vow. Subsequently Mrs. Tilton went into a room in the house, assigned to Miss Anthony, for protection from her enraged husband. She locked and bolted the door, fearing Tilton would kill his wife. He pounded on the door and demanded admittance, but Miss Anthony told him he could enter the room only over her dead body. He then went away. The next day Tilton ordered Miss Anthony never to enter his house again.

LOCAL BREVIETIES.

The Senator will sail for San Francisco on Saturday, August 1st.

The Los Angeles leaves for Santa Barbara and San Francisco to-day, passengers taking the 4 p. m. train.

Professor Denton will pass the remainder of this week at the seaside, and sail for San Francisco on Saturday next.

The public schools will open next Monday. It is desirable that all the scholars who wish to attend be present from the first.

John Collins, the principal mover in the late ring transaction, yesterday received a sentence of ninety days in the chain gang.

The Orizaba will leave for San Diego on Monday, August 3d, and will return bound for San Francisco on Wednesday, August 5th.

The latest report from the Bell mines is that a force of men will be put to work this week to open up the Phoenix ledge, one of the latest discovered.

Judge Gray found yesterday that the colored individual, George Trent, did steal that suit of clothes. He will pass sentence upon the culprit this morning.

Cuente Eleralde swore out a warrant before Justice Gray yesterday, against Constable Dye Davis, of Anaheim, for keeping sanguinary threats against him.

Mr. Samuel Merrill, agent for the Sherman & Hyde pianos and organs and Home sewing machine has established an office and salesroom at No. 137 Main street.

Dr. W. W. Dooner, who recently purchased the drug store of Dr. Terry, is now settled in his new quarters and ready to accommodate the public with everything in his line.

We learn that the Vivian troupe arrived in the city last night. They will go to Anaheim and San Diego, and will return to give some entertainments here next week.

We learn that Dr. F. H. Rose, formerly a much esteemed citizen of Los Angeles, and the founder of our public schools, has been elected Superintendent of Schools in Petaluma.

The assessments of sheep in this county now stand, for graded, $2 25; and for common, $1 75 per head these being the amounts fixed by the supervisors before their adjournment.

A fine large young horse, sound, gentle and a good roadster and splendid family horse for sale, or would exchange for a span of half-breds—apply to Kimball & Bancroft. 1w—2

The "Thirty-eights" are to give two prizes: First and second to the fastest runners, ten times around the ring tonight at their circus and entertainment. This adds another rich treat to the brilliant programme.

The citizens on the other side of the river have applied to the School Board for the establishment of a school in their precinct. The Board will comply with their request as soon as a suitable building can be secured.

Mr. Paze, of the firm of Page & Gravel, has returned from the Santa Barbara Springs, whither he went to recuperate his former impaired health. He is now back and hearty again, and at his post, ready for business.

Chas. L. Goethals, a practical mechanist, lately arrived in this city from Kansas, has opened a gunsmith and general repair shop, on Commercial street, near the depot. He will attend to all work entrusted to him with accuracy and dispatch.

W. A. Chambers, the party who was so badly beaten over the head at El Monte on the 6th of this month by a chain in the hands of A. H. Lawton recovered sufficiently to file his complaint against Lawton yesterday. A warrant was issued and placed in the hands of Constable Bryant for Lawton's arrest.

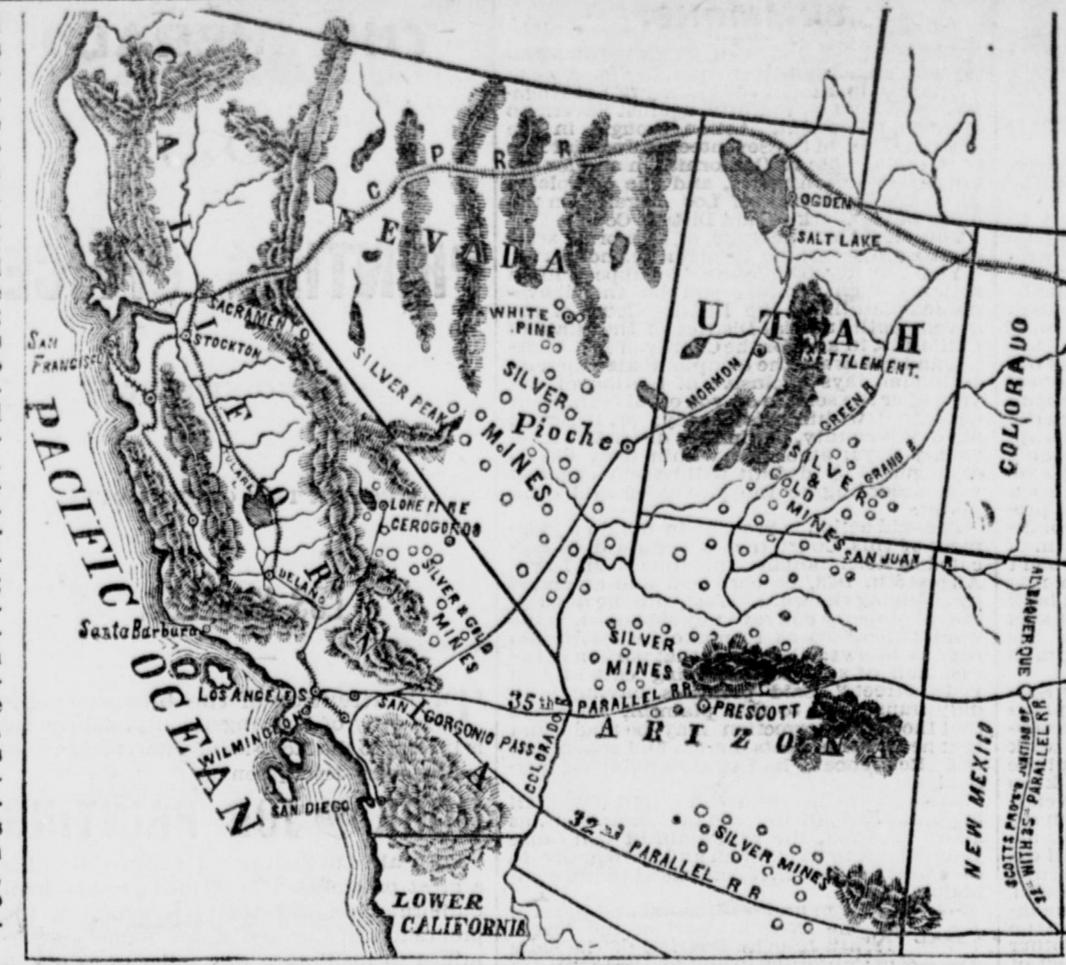

Somebody looked the safe at the depot the other day, and forgot the combination which had to be taken to the machine shop to be forced open, and when we saw it, yesterday, it was pretty well dismantled with the plates removed from one side, the packing taken out, and it was not open yet. Moral—When you look a combination cap on.

The San Francisco Circus will be here again to-night to give their benefit for the fire department. The merit of this troupe has already been commented upon quite extensively, and it is thoroughly appreciated by our citizens, as the large crowds assembled at the former performances testified. This, together with the ländle design in view, the assistance of the "Thirty-eights" ought to attract a large audience to-night.

This evening, Dr. York, of San Jose, who is on a lecturing tour through the southern part of the State, will commence a course of free lectures at Grange Hall. Four lectures will be comprised in the course, with the following subjects: First, "Open Questions;" second, "Wasted Powers;" third, "Local Option and Temperance Reform;" and fourth, "How to be Happy." The Doctor has elicited complimentary notice from the press wherever he has lectured heretofore. The San Bernardino Argus thus favorably comments upon his efforts in that place: "All his lectures have been well attended. Many do not agree with the Doctor's views are attracted by his pleasing style and manner. His thoughts are expressed in pure language and his voice is musical. He is a man who can wield much influence, and during his sojourn here has been well received, by a large element in our community."
